The Killgerm Subsidised Waste Disposal Scheme is supported by the following companies:

1. Lower Tier Registration as Waste Carrier

It is a legal requirement to register as a lower tier waste carrier if you transport any type of waste as part of your business. The Killgerm Subsidised Waste Disposal Scheme is a service to help dispose of waste in compliance with the law. The collection, transport, recovery and disposal of waste should follow the concept of the 'waste hierarchy' as set out by law.

THE WASTE HIERARCHY
Prevention
Preparing for re-use
Recycling
Recover e.g. energy recovery
Disposal

Members of the Killgerm Subsidised Waste Disposal Scheme ("The Scheme") will in part be fulfilling their legal duty under waste legislation and the 'waste hierarchy' if they adhere to the terms and conditions of the scheme.

Killgerm Chemicals Ltd operates a licenced waste transfer station and is registered as an upper tier waste carrier(CBDU141760). The company holds the relevant environmental permit (EPR/CP3398ZE). The employees running the scheme are fully qualified and hold the relevant certificates of competence (Appendix 1) in order to manage the activities of the waste and in compliance with the law.

2. Reporting Consignee Receipts of Hazardous Waste

All hazardous waste producers must complete consignee returns every quarter (three months) to the Environment Agency reporting what hazardous waste has been received at their premises.

Hazardous waste producers must provide a return, reporting their activities for each quarter, within one month at the end of each quarter. It is a legal requirement that records are retained for three years.

- Quarter 1 : 1 January to 31 March – provide by 30 April
- Quarter 2 : 1 April to 30 June – provide by 31 July
- Quarter 3 : 1 July to 30 September – provide by 31 October
- Quarter 4 : 1 October to 31 December – provide by 31 January

3. Using Consignment Notes for Hazardous Waste Movement

Consignment notes will need to be generated for the movement of any hazardous waste including from premises where work is carried out back to your own premise (note this does not apply to domestic premises) and then again once consolidated loads are moved for disposal to a waste disposal site or waste transfer station. The Environment Agency has webpages www.gov.uk/dispose-hazardous-waste/consignment-notes that will help in the completion of consignment notes. For members of The Scheme Killgerm will assist with the completion of consignment notes when waste is delivered to our waste transfer station. We will also give advice on consignment note completion. There is an example of a consignment note in Appendix 3.

As an alternative, The Scheme offers to members the on-line facility to complete an order form, for the delivery or collection of waste, and which will automatically generate a consignment note.

4. Complying with the Waste Hierarchy

In order to comply with the 'waste hierarchy' waste can be divided into different categories:

WASTE	HAZARDOUS?	WHAT TO DO WITH IT	COVERED BY THE SCHEME
Outer-packaging: e.g. boxes, cartons, filling from non-chemical products.	Non-Hazardous waste	Re-use or recycle	✗
Primary packaging: e.g. sachets, bait buckets and other containers from unclassified products	Hazardous waste	Dispose	✓
Primary packaging: e.g. sachets and other containers from classified products, contaminated outer-packaging, spent rodent bait and contaminated PPE	Hazardous waste	Dispose	✓
Fluorescent tubes from electronic fly killers	Hazardous waste	Recycle	✓
Empty aerosols	Hazardous waste	Dispose	✓
Excess, out-of-date, obsolete or unusable pesticides	Hazardous waste	Dispose	✓
Batteries	Hazardous waste	Recycle	✓
Rodent or other animal carcasses	Non-Hazardous	Dispose	✗

Your waste must be separated and bagged up using 300 gauge, clear, polythene bags with plastic pull ties. Thin gauge black polythene bags are not suitable and must not be used, otherwise waste may be returned at the member's cost. Do not mark bags as toxic or hazardous.

Before delivering waste it should be separated as follows:

- Empty aerosols
- Spent bait
- Contaminated packaging and used PPE
- Florescent tubes
- Out-of-date or obsolete pesticides
- Batteries

Spent bait and bait stations should be bagged separately from other container waste.

Fluorescent tubes from electronic fly killer machines should be counted, boxed or bagged and marked with the number contained in the bag.

Empty aerosols and empty Aluminium phosphide containers (under the brand names "Talunex[®]" and "Phostoxin[®]") need to be counted and placed in bags marked with the number it contains and also that they are vented in line with instructions given on the safety data sheet which can be found at www.ramps-uk.org or from the Killgerm website in the downloads section.

Empty primary packaging which has contained Talunex[®] or Phostoxin[®] should be emptied completely, re-lidded and disposed of according to the safety data sheet and the RAMPS code which can be found at www.ramps-uk.org/. Incompletely de-gassed containers may incur a charge to the customer if Killgerm has to carry out the work to render them safe.

Infested waste (insects, maggots, micro-organisms) or significantly odorous wastes are not acceptable under the conditions of our waste management site licence. Customers are asked to manage their storage, consolidation, collection systems to obviate wastes degenerating by these means.

The Scheme does not cover members' canteen, office or general wastes arising from depots, premises, offices or vehicles in which pest controller's work.

5. Using Killgerm's Subsidised Waste Disposal Scheme

The Scheme will run annually from 1st January until 31st December. The membership fee for all companies or individuals is £285 per annum and includes an individual waste allowance of 75kg per year. Once you have reached your waste allowance a supplemental charge for waste over 75kg will be charged at £3.00 per kg.

Members can dispose of waste under The Scheme which has directly arisen as a result of work undertaken solely by them, and specifically excludes all waste generated by any subcontractors or other 3rd parties.

If members are unable to deliver waste to the Killgerm waste transfer station directly, Killgerm Chemicals can arrange for it to be collected. The cost of collection will be paid by the member and an individual quote upon request will be provided for each collection.

By signing up to The Scheme you will be subject to our terms and conditions, which are at the rear of this booklet and can also be viewed on-line at www.killgerm.com/waste_disposal_scheme/

You can join The Scheme by visiting <http://www.killgerm.com/wastescheme/contract.php> or contacting Killgerm on 01924 268463.

Once your application has been verified and the membership fee fully paid, you will be provided with your own personal log-in details and be a full member of The Scheme.

To arrange for waste to be collected or for an allocated delivery time there is an on-line order form to be completed. Members will be able to specify their desired delivery date on-line, and if the delivery date and time need to be altered, you will be contacted directly. Once the form has been completed it will generate a consignment note. You will be contacted shortly after with a quote for the cost of collection if applicable.

The law does not allow customers to send waste through unlicensed carriers. Killgerm will not accept any waste unless it is in accordance with the regulations. If you request for your waste to be collected, Killgerm will arrange for the services of a licensed carrier. For this we will provide you with a quote for the costs of this service. The cost of collection is not covered by The Scheme and therefore the charge will be levied to the customer.

Before delivering the waste it must be separated correctly, following the guidelines above, and using the correct 300 gauge, clear, polythene bags with plastic pull ties.

The waste will need to be delivered to Stephen Leahy at the Killgerm Works, 115 Wakefield Road, Ossett WF5 9AR.

Once you have delivered your waste a COSHH assessment will be carried out and the waste checked by a qualified person and weighed to ensure the approximations given on the order form are correct. If the approximations are incorrect they will be amended with the correct weight and charged for accordingly.

It may be that more information is required when assessing the waste, if this is the case and more additional sorting or laboratory testing is required, due to inaccuracies or inadequate information on the order form, it may incur an extra charge.

Waste will be streamed accordingly and disposed of by Killgerm.

6. Additional Advice

Environmental Permitting exemptions

Pest Controllers may need to apply for an exemption from the need to hold an environmental permit to store their customers' hazardous waste (e.g. fluorescent tubes) at the Pest Controller's premise. There is no charge but there is a need to fill in a form on the Environment Agency website. Conditions are laid down regarding storage. For storage of other waste such as empty aerosol containers and other hazard classified waste then an exemption – "Temporary storage of waste on the site where it is produced" - applies. There is no need, however, to apply to Environment Agency for this exemption. Seek advice from Environment Agency or Killgerm if you need further guidance.

Waste exemptions

Regulations for waste exemptions were changed in April 2012. The regulations affect the types of waste operation that are exempt and the rules which control them. There are four categories of waste exemptions: - use, treatment, disposal and storage. It is likely that the "storage" exemptions may be of use to pest control companies. Waste exemptions cover the following activities; -

Storage of waste:

Storage exemptions not requiring registration are termed Non Waste Framework Directive exemptions. These operations can be undertaken without the need for a permit, but, unlike other exemptions, they do not have to be registered with an authority:

1. Temporary storage of waste at place of production
2. Temporary storage of waste at a place controlled by the producer
3. Temporary storage at a collection point.

Contact the Environment Agency or consult their website for further data.

7. Frequently Asked Questions and Answers

Q. Is a duty of care note or consignment note needed for removal of spent bait, fluorescent tubes and other waste from the members, customer premises?

A. Spent bait. The first consideration is: who owns the waste? It is not waste until the bait has been inspected by the pest controller. The pest controller owns the bait unless there is a special clause in the contract between the customer and the pest controller for example, such that the customer owns the bait stations and the bait in them. If the spent bait is owned by the pest controller, effectively generated during his business activity then there is no transfer of waste between the customer and the pest controller. But because spent bait attracts the EWC code 20 01 19 (pesticides – hazardous waste) then a consignment note must be used to describe the waste, and the persons involved, and the fact that it is being moved out of a premise. Also, the pest controller is carrying his own waste (spent bait) so he needs to register as a lower tier waste carrier.

A. Fluorescent tubes. First consideration is who owns them? It depends on the contract between pest controller and his customer. Above applies if the pest controller owns them and designates them as waste items when removed from the EFK machine – but fluorescent tubes are classified as hazardous waste and a consignment note must be used to legalise movement whenever hazardous waste is moved from a premise. Hazardous waste receivers (consignees) need to make returns to the Environment Agency on a 3-monthly basis.

A. Empty aerosol canisters. The Environment Agency have advised that incidental, small numbers arisings of empty aerosols generated at a customer's premise could be returned to the pest controller's premise in his vehicle without the need for consignment note etc. In effect, the pest controller would return the aerosol can as a product (not waste) and designate it as waste when assessed back at his depot.

A. Rat and mouse carcasses. It might be said that the pest controller owns the carcasses because it is waste generated in the course of his business as he carries out searches for bodies. If the customer were to hand the pest controller a dead rat then this might be considered to be a transfer of waste from one person to another and a duty of care note would be needed. Rodent carcasses are not classified as hazardous waste, and their disposal is not covered by The Scheme.

Q. Are there any exemptions from the need to hold certain environmental permits?

A. Pest control companies can benefit from a non-waste framework Directive (NWFD) exemption called – “Temporary storage of waste at a place controlled by the producer”. This can be found on the Environment Agency website. This would be applied to the premise and the place where waste is stored. There are conditions: - 3 months max storage period, 50m³ max storage volume of waste, safe storage.

Empty packaging That cannot be or has not been decontaminated	Hazardous waste if empty packaging has contained a hazard-classified preparation. Dispose of material via contractor licensed to dispose of hazardous waste for incineration or other means as appropriate e.g. Talunex, Phostoxin and metal phosphide containers, insecticide concentrates	15.01.10 (M) Indicate hazardous property(ies) see below

If no dangerous substance present then regard as non-hazardous. If dangerous substance present produce data to show that no more than 0.1% of dangerous substance(s) by weight of total waste is left (worst-case) to achieve a non-hazardous classification. Dead rats, mice, insects, pigeons and other pests and mixed bird carcasses, droppings (guano) and nesting materials	Considered generally to be 'Non-Hazardous Waste' but apply precautionary principle. Risk assess for suspected or confirmed infection hazards. If known to be present seek 'Clinical' Waste advice and dispose of as Hazardous Waste. Contractor following product label advice should recover animal carcasses (e.g. rodents) separately where possible and remove from site as Non-Hazardous Waste. Note: Dispose of material as industrial waste and not as 'black bag' waste i.e. not in the municipal or household waste stream No longer permitted to burn or bury on site or elsewhere. Pest controllers carrying out work on farms are allowed to bury rodent carcasses on farmland provided certain conditions are complied with. See EA site for details	20 01 99 18.02.02 (M) Indicate hazardous property(ies) see note 4. This might be appropriate when, for example movement restrictions were in place because of an outbreak of animal disease

NOTES

1. *(M) 'Mirror entries' – hazardous waste, only if dangerous substances are present above threshold concentrations
2.  'Absolute entries' – hazardous waste regardless of any threshold concentrations
3. In the table, include 'biocide' in the meaning of the word pesticide
4. Hazardous properties: it is most likely that the hazard associated with the waste will be one of the following:

HP3 Highly flammable/flammable	HP4 Irritant	HP5 Harmful
HP6 Toxic	HP7 Carcinogenic	HP9 Infectious
HP10 Toxic for reproduction	HP14 Ecotoxic
5. Empty containers, packaging, bait stations etc. Decontaminate by rinsing containers three times or scrape, shake and/or brush/wipe until no more pesticide is removable. Find out whether contamination is by a dangerous substance using the SDS. If container is not 'empty' it is not packaging waste. If the container contains hazardous residues, the entry 15 01 10* is most appropriate. If the residue or contaminant does not display hazardous properties then the packaging or container will be coded according to its construction material (e.g. plastic). If no dangerous substance present then consider non-hazardous. If dangerous substance present produce data to show that no more than 0.1% of dangerous substance(s) by weight of total packing is left (worst-case) to achieve a non-hazardous classification. Dispose of cleaned material as non-hazardous waste, but note that the waste created by cleaning needs a safe route of disposal. If decontamination is not possible, then a hazardous waste route must be followed and the waste must be dealt with as if it were only the contaminating material.
6. Fluorescent tubes, empty aerosol containers, spent bait, contaminated articles (PPE, containers etc) and unsorted batteries are classified as hazardous waste. The appropriate EWG six digit codes used in industry include:
 - 20 01 21 - fluorescent tubes and other mercury-containing waste;
 - 20 01 27 - paints, inks, adhesives and resins containing dangerous substances (empty aerosols)
 - 16 05 04 - gasses in pressure containers (including halons) containing dangerous substances (empty aerosols)
 - 20 01 19 - spent bait, contaminated articles/ packaging PPE containers etc
 - 20 01 33 - Unsorted batteries (sorting requires a competent individual)
